Thursday Nite Rides

Monday, 10 December 2007

Teams DART-nuun (www.dartadventureracing.com) and Feed the Machine (team.feedthemachine.com) are starting regular winter night mountain bike training rides in the Santa Monica Mountains starting this Thursday Dec 20th at 7:30pm. These rides are open to ALL skill and fitness levels. We all need a little motivation getting out there during the colder winter months so what better than having others to ride with. These will be no drop rides which means that we'll regroup along the route to make sure everyone finishes together. Depending on how many we are, we will split the group into speed levels. If you want to go fast, you can join the fast group but if you want to go slower you can join the slower group. During the rides, we'll gladly help anyone with training and technical tips. We will also have on hand all sorts of products that you can try or enjoy like Function drinks, nuun or Light and Motion lights.

11 Year Old Jordan Romero Takes on Aconcagua

Saturday, 15 December 2007

Team Feed The Machine is proud to play a small part in the destiny of famed junior mountaineer Jordan Romero's quest to become the youngest person in history to successfully climb the highest mountain on every continent, a prestigious mountaineering feat known as the Seven Summits. For Jordan's ascent of 23,000+ foot Aconcagua in Argentina this month, Team Feed The Machine is the proud host of Jordan's LIVE BLOG as he continues his ascent. As the expedition continues, you can select Jordan Romero from Bloggers and get text and photo updates from him or select Jordan's SPOT GPS and track him and his team to the top! For more in-depth info on Jordan, you can read on or you can go to his web site at www.jordanromero.com.

Evan takes 1st Overall at Bonelli!

Thursday, 18 October 2007

Our very own Evan Hyde showed every other person at the Renegade Racing Sprint Adventure Race at Bonelli Park in San Dimas, CA just what big time speed and perfect route choice looks like. He bested the entire field of 80 teams and 50 solos to finish 1st Overall! He wore the Team FTM jersey proud and it paid off. We like to think the jersey had something to do with it, but it was probably Evan's hard work that did it. It looks like Evan's ankle has healed nicely since the AR World Champs in Scotland. He is primed and ready for XPD Portugal in December where Team FTM will have its fastest and most experienced team ever.

Race Report for 2007 Siku Extreme Arctic Challenge

Friday, 10 August 2007

This is the Race Report for the 2007 Siku Extreme Arctic Challenge written by me, Christian Burke, before during and after the race spanning from July 20th to 30th, 2007. It is composed of a series of emails sent over the handful of days over the course of the

Team FTM Takes 4th at XPD Portugal

Saturday, 15 December 2007

Team FTM takes on a stacked International crowd at XPD Portugal and earns a hard fought 4th Place! Early navigation mistakes quickly dropped the gang to the back of the pack. Patience and persistence paid off as they slowly locked onto the course and steadily picked off checkpoint after checkpoint gradually gaining speed. Near the race end, the team was trucking at full speed and crossed the finish line with little left in the tank. The gang crossed the finish line on the beach and, due to the format, only found out their fate a few hours later at the post race dinner (of which they were late for). Read on for more about the race...

The Moab AdventureXtreme

Thursday, 04 October 2007

This race took an unexpected entry into our race calendar. Silvie Maracci, a regular training partner to the team, asked if we could put together a team for the race. Not being able to say no to a great opportunity to see some beautiful and one of a kind territory, we launched our campaign to find some great talent to fill out the team and get to the race. The race did not disappoint...spectacular views, awesome terrain, wild weather and stiff competition. Our goal of a top 5 was washed away with the weather, but a respectable 8th place was well earned in the end. Next year...

Team FTM takes on ATC Greenland

Sunday, 05 August 2007

With a tough team, Team FTM took to the glaciers and fjords of East Greenland for the second time. The field was stacked with fast and familiar European teams that know how to travel along the steep rocky and icy terrain. But Team FTM worked hard, despite
